Art resource guide set

The art teachers of Appomattox County Public Schools are creating a resource guide of businesses in the area and surrounding counties that will donate materials often disposed of, that can be valuable when used in the classroom to create art.

The resource guide will contain ideas for art which illustrations, easy-to-read instructions and the names and addresses of businesses where the free materials can be found. After it has been printed, this booklet will provide handy information for classroom teachers, parents, and students as well as provide free advertising to the cooperative businesses.

Letters are being mailed to area and surrounding businesses explaining the art resource guide project. Each letter will contain a short form which asks if the business is willing to donate their "throw-aways" or by-products, what the materials are, and if the business is willing to have its name and location printed in the art resource guide. A stamped and self-addressed envelope of the Appomattox County Public Schools is included in the letter for the business convenience.

Creating stuffed animals and dolls from upholstery and cloth scraps donated from garment and upholstery shops, creating wooden toys and sculpture from carpenters and building suppliers are only a few of the ideas that will be found in the art resource guide.

For further information, contact Mrs. Wendy Richardson, Miss Beth Lawson or Mrs. Margaret Neathery, art instructors at the Appomattox County Public Schools.

Miss Theresa Moore

Miss Moore is finalist

Miss Theresa Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Doctor of Highland Springs, has been selected as a finalist in the 1981 Miss Virginia U. S. A. Pageant scheduled to be at the Hyatt Richmond Hotel the weekend of February 14 15.

The winner will represent Virginia in the 30th Annual Miss U.S.A. Pageant, to be telecast nationally by CBS, live from Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum. Approximately 80 young women from Virginia will compete for the state title.

The contestants will be judged on the basis of beauty of face and figure, poise, personality, grooming, intelligence and the speaking ability.

Miss Moore is a graduate of Highland Springs High School and is attending Lynchburg College. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Edith Williams and great-granddaughter of Mrs. Sam Megginson, both of Appomattox.

Lawson Ford of Appomattox is Miss Moore's sponsor.

U.Va. plans class for Appomattox this Spring

The University of Virginia has scheduled an extension class in Appomattox for the Spring Semester. The class number and title is CEED 548: Management of Behavior/Discipline. The class instructor is Mr. John W. Amos. Three hours of graduate or undergraduate credits will be given for successful completion of the class.

The class will begin on February 10 at 7 p.m. in Room 228 at Appomattox County High School.

The Appomattox County School Board arranges with the University of Virginia School of Continuing Education for classes to be offered in the Fall and Spring semesters and for a three weeks session to be conducted each June. These classes are planned for instructional personnel who are renewing teaching certificates, seeking additional endorsements or gaining more depth in their respective areas of assignment.

The classes are open to persons in the community who desire to enroll. The tuition for non-teaching individuals is $105.00 per class.

Additional information may be secured by calling the School Board Office. The telephone number is 352-8251.

Farm Class slated

The Agricultural Education Department at the Appomattox Middle School is offering to county residents a Farm Machinery Repair class at the Middle School Agricultural Building.

This course is offered for those persons who wish to repair or construct items for farm or personal use. The public is invited to come out and sign up.

The class will be informal as they have been in the past. You are free to come and go as you please and work those nights that best suit your purposes. We would like to register all those planning to use the facilities the first two nights, so that we can plan for supplies and materials needed for your projects.

There will be an agricultural instructor and a lay instructor on hand to help you if and when you would desire assistance.

The first class will be held on Feb. 3 and the last meeting will be March 31. The classes will meet from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday.

So come on out and make that woodburning stove or repair that metal gate. Hope to see you there.

Trenor Hypes promoted

D. J. Collins, Manager of Westvaco's Virginia Woodlands headquartered in Appomattox, recently announced the promotion of Trenor L. Hypes from Land Acquisition Agent to Northern District Forester.

Hypes is a native of Staunton, Virginia and a 1979 honor graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, where he completed B.S. and M.S. degrees in Industrial Forestry Operations. Upon graduation, Hypes joined Westvaco as a Land Acquisition Agent at Virginia Woodlands and has served for the past year in this capacity.

As Northern District Forester, Hypes has the responsibility for the multiple use land management activities on 65,000 acres of company woodlands located throughout 8 counties in the Central Piedmont of Virginia. He is directly responsible for the cultural activities necessary to establish and maintain at maximum growth levels nearly 2000 acres of loblolly pine plantations annually on the District.

FBLA discusses the ins and outs of careers

The highlight of the November meeting of the Future Business Leaders of America was a panel discussion. The members of the panel were:

1. Joyce Maddox - Assistant Personnel Director - Central Fidelity National Bank.
2. J. Ron Parsell - Lynchburg Research Center - Babcock and Wilcox.
3. Francis Guilt - Secretary - Parks and Recreation.
4. Sheila Webb - Legal Secretary for Robert Gray, Jr.
5. R. B. Carter - Vocational Director - Appomattox County Schools.

During the panel discussion, the panelists discussed different types of careers, the education requirements, and the process of job application.

Following the panel discussion, several of the members presented a skit, depicting the correct and incorrect way to present oneself for a job interview. Those participating were Susan Morris, Dawn Deaner and Joyce Maddox.

During the business session the member of the month was introduced. The member of the month for November is a senior at A.C.H.S. and a student in the Stenography and Related II class. She attended the State Leadership Training Conference at Massanetta Springs during the summer of 1978-79, attended the State Leadership Conference in Roanoke in April, 1980, and is a 4-year member of the parliamentary law team. She is also in charge of the Business Department bulletin board and is working hard on the "Clean Up" A.C.H.S. project. This student is employed at Central Fidelity Bank through the COE program and is Historian of our chapter. The member of the month is Debbie Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lewis Harris of Route 1, Appomattox.

Gas use falls

Virginia's gasoline use in November 1980 fell 5.4 per cent below the November 1979 consumption mark, and registered 1.2 per cent below the federal target established for Virginia.

Gasoline purchases during 1980 have consistently dropped below the consumption levels of corresponding months in 1979.

Virginia's gasoline purchase record, calculated by the Virginia Division of Motor Vehicles, has also kept the State under the monthly federal consumption targets for nine out of the eleven months reported to date.

With the release of the November figures, Virginia is now under the federal targets on a cumulative basis by 2.0 per cent.

"Virginia motorists have saved well over 100 million gallons over eleven months, which is quite an accomplishment in a state that is reliant on motor vehicles," said George L. Jones, State Coordinator, Virginia Office of Emergency and Energy Services (OEES).
